

John Mullaney has been the Executive Director of the Nord Family Foundation since April 1998. Prior to his tenure at The Nord Family Foundation, Mr. Mullaney served in both the education and non-profit sectors and developing countries. He was a program and research manager at Harvard University's Institute for International Development and a program director for the Latin American Scholarship Program of American Universities, also at Harvard University. In each of his positions, he had the opportunity to work directly with university faculty and public officials in Latin America, Europe and Africa. His experience in philanthropy began in 1982 as a country representative for Catholic Relief Services in El Salvador during that country's civil war. John completed his undergraduate education at Boston College and a Master's degree from Georgetown University.

John currently chairs the Policy Committee of Philanthropy Ohio which includes oversight and convening for the Education, Health Policy and Tax Policy sub-committees.

He is married to Barbara Sawhill and has two sons Aidan and Eoin.
