

Susie Salisbury

Susie Kortz Salisbury is the Vice President of Community Development for the Charleston Area Alliance. She has an extensive background in community and economic development serving in several capacities including Main Street West Virginia Program, Charleston Renaissance Corporation, City of Charleston and private consulting. She holds an undergraduate degree in parks and recreation administration and a master's of business administration degree from Marshall University. She is active on several nonprofit boards, is a Board of Trustee Member of the Herscher Foundation and is serving her third term on Charleston City Council. She is a member of the American Planning Association and International Downtown Association. Susie is a Certified Economic Development Finance Professional through the National Development Council.