

Dr. Eunice Bellinger

President, BridgeValley Community and Technical College

Dr. Bellinger has a Ph.D. in Sociology of Education and an Ed.M. in Counseling Psychology from SUNY/Buffalo, as well as a B.S. in Personnel Management from Niagara University. Previously, she held positions as the Executive Vice President of Academic Affairs and Provost at Genesee Community College, Interim Provost at Massachusetts Bay Community College, CAO and COO at the Long Island Center of Empire State College. She also has nearly 23 years of teaching experience, including Professor of Social Sciences at Camp Doha, Kuwait (University of Maryland) where she received the Stanley Drazek Teaching Excellence Award (2001); Associate Professor in the College of Education at the Public Authority for Applied Education and Training in Kuwait; and Associate Professor of Social Science at SUNY/Alfred.

Upon arrival at BridgeValley Community and Technical College, Dr. Bellinger has begun to familiarize herself with the college, its culture and the larger community. As a reflection of the emphasis placed on workforce training and technical education, BridgeValley continues to play a pivotal role in the economic development of its service region. Besides continuing to develop and offer such programs, Dr. Bellinger seeks to develop alternative pathways in entrepreneurship and small business programs for those who desire a non-technological emphasis towards self-sustaining employment. The region is rich in innovation and creativity that will be developed to provide the service region with unique opportunities.
